Philippe Denis

Chief Digital Officer

BNP Paribas Securities Services

Present

Philippe Denis is the Chief Digital Officer at BNP Paribas Securities Services. He is in charge of the bank's digital strategy and information intelligence technologies to redefine the client experience and define new business models with clients and partners. Philippe is also responsible for driving proposals in the areas of digital business transformation through big data (business information intelligence...), blockchain, and employee augmented 2.0 (cognitive agents, natural language processing and artificial intelligence).

Previous

Prior to joining BNP Paribas, Philippe began his career at Crédit Agricole where he held several management roles in IT and business. In 1985, he joined Paribas holding a number of senior roles including Deputy Head of Investment Reporting and Performance (IRP) where he expanded the team from 9 to over 300 employees. In 2010, Philippe began a number of innovative new projects around client solutions, digitalisation of product lifecycle management, regulations (solvency 2 and AIFMD) and social networks.
